

WORLD OF TEENAGERS

Course	English	Grade	8th Grade	Duration	4 lesson hours (4x40')

Overview

This learning scenario integrates web tools to enhance the students' skills in expressing preferences and talking about the regular activities of teenagers. Various digital tools are used to create different learning materials, to engage the students actively in the learning process and to support different learning styles, using technology-based learning approach. The scenario includes an animation, presentations of adjectives and the warmup activities. It is expected that the utilisation of cooperative learning will allow the students to engage in collaborative work and display creativity and productivity. The role of the teacher is to provide guidance and observation. To foster the students' creativity, productivity and to develop digital skills, the teacher encourages the students to use animation creation tools and the tools for creating digital boards or post-its. The teacher measures the students' progress with a group evaluation form, multiple choice questions and matching activities and the teacher provides immediate feedback for all the activities throughout the lessons.

APPLICATION

Activities

Before the Lesson

The teacher is required to design various digital materials to enhance student engagement and learning. First, the teacher designs an activity named Guess the Music using one of the gamification web tools and downloads different types of music, such as "jazz, techno, and pop, etc." to be used for the activity. Then the teacher creates an animation titled Plans for the Weekend using one of the animation creation tools (Annex-1). Lastly, for the assessment, the teacher developes Elizabeth's Routines multiple-choice questions using one of the web tools for multiple-choice questions (Annex-2).

Lesson 1 (Class)

Lesson 2 (IT Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher introduces the Four Corners of Me activity, where the teacher displays a visual on the interactive whiteboard, asks the students to form groups of four and to think of the four parts of themselves such as "Something I am crazy about, something I can't stand, etc." The students brainstorm for a while, share their answers with their classmates and comment on the answers.

While Activity

Following the activity, the teacher wants the students to continue with their group members to create an animation using one of the animation creation tools, where the students are required to write short and simple dialogues about regular activities of teenagers and make a weekend plan. Additionally, the students are required to provide a simple description of their daily activities and to express what they prefer, like and dislike while creating the animation. The teacher informs the students that their

Lesson 3 (Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher introduces the How Do You Feel? activity, where the teacher initiates the visual on the interactive whiteboard, asks the students to choose a feeling from the visual that reflects their emotions such as embarrassed or happy, then drag the marbles into the corresponding box and the teacher then explains the reasons in a few sentences.

While Activity

After the activity, the teacher initiates the Adjectives for Emotions presentation, where the students follow the provided adjectives and identify their meanings. (Annex-4). During the presentation of the adjectives, the teacher writes additional examples on the board and invites the students to form sentences to discuss their preferences using the provided adjectives.

Post-Activity

After the presentation, to assess the comprehension, the teacher implements the Adjectives and

While Activity

After the miming and gesturing exercise, the teacher introduces a sticky note containing a sample daily routine, free time activities, or hobbies. The teacher shares the sticky note with the students, explains the task, and invites them to describe their routines or hobbies using both an emoji and an adjective to express how each activity makes them feel. The sticky note prompts the students to share not only their favorite activities but also their least favorite ones. The teacher supports the students as they plan their routines and hobbies. Once completed, the students are encouraged to share their responses with their classmates.

Post-Activity

Once the sticky notes have been completed and shared with their classmates, the students proceed to assess their comprehension of the adjectives. They then attempt to identify the adjectives that
