FANTASTIC READERS!

Course	English	Grade	6th Grade	Duration	3 lesson hours (3x40')

This scenario is designed to assist teachers in providing an effective learning experience utilising technology. The teacher may utilise this scenario, which is presented as an exemplar, or adapt it to align with the specific requirements of the students and the physical conditions of the educational institution.

Overview

This learning scenario fosters student engagement through a series of meticulously designed interactive activities that promote communication, collaboration, problem-solving, and digital skills. The scenario encompasses the delivery of a digital story to instruct the students in the simple past tense and the utilisation of visuals to illustrate structures employed for the prepositions of place. Moreover, the addition of a book collecting campaign, the creation of an exhibition corridor, and the designing of posters aims to develop creative thinking skills and problem-solving skills of the students. In particular, cooperative learning methodologies in the creation of dialogues, and the integration of technology-based learning approaches serve to enhance student engagement and facilitate vocabulary acquisition. Briefly, the teacher's role is pivotal in facilitating learning through the effective integration of digital tools, including stories, posters and visual aids, to establish an environment conducive to learning and motivation.

The assessment process will be diversified through the implementation of multiple-choice questions, chat cards and a "Where is it?" activity. This approach aims to enhance the process for the students by rendering it more engaging and enjoyable. Additionally, the teacher will provide immediate feedback on all activities throughout the lesson to facilitate learning.

Key Concepts: Simple past tense, Prepositions, Project-based learning

Learning Goals

Students

- Identify the sentences and expressions about past events.
- Discuss the locations of things.
- Explore the significance of reading.
- Enhance their communication skills.
- Leverage technology to enhance learning.
- Collaborate to create a digital product.
- Apply information technology in poster design.

Course Objectives

- E6.8.SI1. Students will be able to talk about the locations of people and things.
- E6.8.SI2. Students will be able to talk about past events with definite time.
- E6.8.R1. Students will be able to understand short, simple sentences and expressions about past events with definite time.
- E6.8.W1. Students will be able to write about past events with definite time.
- E6.8.W2. Students will be able to write about the locations of people and things.

PREPARATION

Learning Approaches, Methods, Strategies

- Technology-based learning
- Cooperative learning
- Project-based learning

Tasks

Teacher

- Develops a digital story.
- Crafts a poster and visuals about the importance of reading.
- Creates visuals to display the locations of objects.
- Produces chat cards to initiate conversations.
- Guides collaborative student work.
- Encourages active student participation.
- Utilises interactive whiteboards and digital tools.

Student

- Completes a digital story.
- Designs a poster emphasising the importance of reading.
- Analyses the locations of the objects in a visual.
- Participates actively in the lesson, following teacher instructions.
- Cooperates effectively with classmates in a book collection campaign.
- Engages in activities to develop digital competence.
- Takes responsibility in activities and assignments.

Instructional Tools/ Technologies

The web tools provided in this scenario are offered as examples. Teachers are free to select and apply any tool they see fit, according to the web tools category. It is recommended that teachers review the web tool in question before use and have a good understanding of the tool's interface.

- Book campaign posters

APPLICATION

Activities

Before the Lesson

First, the teacher designs a Why Is It Important? poster using one of the poster and flyer creation tools and prints out the poster (Annex-1). Then, the teacher creates An Interesting Day at the Library story using one of the digital story creation tools (Annex-2). Next, for the assessment, the teacher creates What Happened? multiple-choice questions using one of the web tools for multiple-choice questions (Annex-3). Lastly, the teacher assigns the students to conduct research about the importance of reading books for our self-development.

Lesson 1 (Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher displays the Why Is It Important? poster on the interactive whiteboard and invites the students to examine it closely and meanwhile, the teacher hangs the poster on the class board (Annex-1). The teacher poses questions such as "Do you enjoy reading books?" and "Why is reading important?" to ascertain the students' reading habits. The teacher then invites the students to form two circles on the board, one inside and the others outside. The students are required to engage in discourse on the significance of reading for our self-development to subsequently convey their research findings to their peers.

While Activity

After the discussion, the teacher initiates the story titled An Interesting Day at the Library, where the students have to understand short, simple sentences and expressions about past events with definite time (Annex-2). At regular intervals throughout the reading of the story, the teacher interrupts and emphasises the use of past tense forms of verbs. The students are asked to note the new verbs in their notebooks, while the teacher provides a detailed explanation of the rules for converting verbs into past tense. Additionally, the teacher poses questions such as "Do you go to the library?" and "What kind of books do you read?" with the objective of fostering an interactive learning environment and encouraging the students to express themselves. The teacher provides prompt feedback throughout the course of the activity.

Post-Activity

Following the story, to assess comprehension, the teacher implements the What Happened? multiple-choice questions, where the students are required to answer the multiple choice questions related to the story (Annex-3).

Related Skills: Communication, Collaboration, Active listening, Critical thinking, Cultural awareness

Before the Lesson

The teacher creates Chat Cards visuals using one of the visual creation and editing tools. The teacher prints the visual content and cuts it into the form of cards (Annex-4).

Lesson 2 (IT Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher displays the Chat Cards visuals and requests that the students examine the questions briefly (Annex-4). The teacher places the printed chat cards on the table and invites the students to work in pairs. One student takes a chat card from the table, poses a question, and the other student responds. The teacher observes the students' communication skills and provides immediate feedback.

While Activity

Following the chat cards activity, the teacher initiates the An Interesting Day at the Library story again, reminds the important parts, and shares the story on EBA. The students work in groups of four using one of the tools for creating digital boards or post-its and are given the task of continuing the story, using the simple past tense to formulate a satisfactory conclusion. The students are encouraged to demonstrate creativity in their writing and drawing the visuals by crafting an ending that is both remarkable and enjoyable. Furthermore, the students may vocalise their stories. The teacher walks around the students and provides prompt feedback throughout the course of the activity. Upon completion of the writing task, the students are required to share their stories on EBA wall. Each student needs to engage with the submitted stories, offering constructive feedback in the form of comments. The class then votes for the story they think is the best, and the teacher prints out the story that is selected and displays it on the class board.

Post-Activity

The teacher initiates Grammar Exercise 1: Bookworms on EBA, where the students match the sentences with pictures. The teacher then emphasises the importance of reading in our lives and invites the students to initiate a book collecting campaign throughout the school. The ensuing details will be elucidated: Firstly, the exhibition corridor, in which all the steps of the campaign will be displayed; and secondly, the objective of the campaign, which is the popularisation of reading. The students are then assigned the task of designing posters for the following lesson emphasising the importance of reading. The dissemination of these posters is intended for exhibition corridors to promote the campaign, and the students make announcements to promote the collection of books for the school. A designated reading area will be established within the exhibition corridor for the use of all students. The teacher will act as a guide during the implementation of the campaign.

Before the Lesson

The teacher designs a Bookworms word cloud using one of the word cloud creation tools. Then, the teacher creates a Find the Visuals activity using one of the visual creation and editing tools. Next, the teacher designs a My Room visual using one of the visual creation and editing tools (Annex-5). Lastly, for the assessment, the teacher creates a Where Is It? visual using one of the visual creation and editing tools (Annex-6).

Lesson 3 (Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher presents the Bookworms word cloud and invites the students to analyse it, focusing on words such as "novel", "author" and "library". Subsequent to the word cloud, the teacher commences the Find the Visuals activity, wherein the students recall the words from the word cloud and identify the corresponding visuals. The student who identifies the correct visuals with the greatest expediency will be declared the winner. The teacher may give a book to the winner as a gift.

While Activity

Subsequent to the presentation of the visual materials, the teacher displays the My Room visual, wherein the students are tasked with identifying the locations of various items (Annex-5). The teacher then proceeds to emphasise the prepositions of place in the visual, followed by the presentation of example sentences that illustrate the application of these prepositions in the classroom setting. Subsequently, the teacher displays the Where Is It? visual, which prompts the students to examine the visual and discuss the locations of objects (Annex-6). Finally, the teacher invites the students to work in pairs, discuss the locations of the objects, and fill in the blanks with the appropriate prepositions.

Post-Activity

Following the activity, the teacher invites the students to participate in a game known as "Hide an Object", in which the students are required to describe the location of an object utilising prepositions. The teacher requests a volunteer student to leave the classroom. While the volunteer is away, the teacher encourages the remaining students to select an object to hide. Upon the volunteer's return, the rest of the students formulate sentences employing prepositions of place to assist the volunteer in finding the object. The volunteer utilises these clues to find the object.

Homework/Assignment

The students are assigned to organise the exhibition corridor, popularise the book collecting campaign and design a small reading corner in the exhibition corridor.

The Transcript of 'An Interesting Day at the Library' Story

Description: The teacher creates a story using one of the digital story creation tools, where the students are required to identify the phrases related to simple past tense.

First Page: Write, "Tom and Ann are close friends. They are bookworms and they like reading books. This is their cat, Cutie. Last Saturday, they went to the library to borrow science books. Cutie went to the library with them.", and create the image of a room.

Second Page: Write, "The library was very quiet. There were a lot of books. They liked the library very much. Cutie was very happy and curious. Cutie started to run and jump.", and create the image of a library.

Third Page: Write, "Tom and Ann looked for the science books and read the magazines. They were very excited, and they forgot about Cutie. They read and read for a long time.", and create the image of a library.

Fourth Page: Write, "Cutie got lost. Where was Cutie? What happened to Cutie?" and create the images of a shocked boy and a girl.

Fifth Page: Write, "Please write the rest of the story." to invite the students to write the continuation and the end of the story.
