THE POWER OF CHOICE

Course	English	Grade	6th Grade	Duration	3 lesson hours (3x40')

This scenario is designed to assist teachers in providing an effective learning experience utilising technology. The teacher may utilise this scenario, which is presented as an exemplar, or adapt it to align with the specific requirements of the students and the physical conditions of the educational institution.

Overview

In this learning scenario focusing on democracy, the students engage in a series of interactive activities designed to develop their communication, collaboration, digital creativity, and critical thinking skills. The scenario includes the use of web tools for brainstorming activities and word cloud creation tools to introduce key democratic terms. An interactive presentation tool and web tools for multiple-choice questions are used to enhance motivation and vocabulary retention. The integration of Think-Pair-Share and cooperative learning strategies encourages active participation and peer collaboration.

Additionally, the students watch an animation about democratic processes, complete an online quiz to assess comprehension, and carry out tasks in which they design their own election campaigns with slogans and promises. An ICT lab-based group activity for creating a digital election campaign further promotes creativity, collaboration, and public speaking skills.

The teacher's role is to facilitate learning by effectively integrating digital tools, interactive games, videos, and online quizzes, creating an interactive, motivating, and active learning environment. The students are encouraged to take an active role throughout the lesson, working individually, in pairs, and in groups, while the teacher provides continuous guidance, feedback, and support. Overall, this scenario promotes a holistic learning experience that integrates democratic concepts, technology, and interactive pedagogical strategies to enhance student engagement and learning outcomes. In the evaluation phase, innovative tools are employed, including matching activities, online quizzes, and presentations, allowing the teacher to assess both vocabulary acquisition and communication skills in expressing ideas about democracy and elections.

APPLICATION

Activities

Before the Lesson

The teacher is required to design various digital materials to boost motivation and enhance the student engagement. First, the teacher creates an activity titled Democracy in One Word using one of tools for creating digital boards or sticky notes and shares the link on EBA. Next, the teacher prepares a presentation titled A Path to Democracy using one of the interactive presentation tools to introduce key democracy-related vocabulary, including words such as vote, candidate, ballot box, president, fairness, rights, and law. A pre-prepared word cloud named Democracy Words is designed using one of the word cloud creation tools by the teacher. Lastly, for vocabulary reinforcement, the teacher designs a matching activity, Democracy Match, using a web tool for matching activities (Annex-1).

Lesson 1 (IT Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher shares the link of the Democracy in One Word with the students and they are asked to think of words or short phrases related to democracy (e.g. vote, candidate, rights, fairness) and share their ideas verbally. As the students share their ideas, they actively input them into the digital platform, which gradually forms a dynamic visual display of the class's brainstorming and highlights the main concepts connected to democracy.

While Activity

The teacher introduces the pre-prepared Democracy Words word cloud containing key democracy-related vocabulary and displays it on the interactive whiteboard. The students are invited to identify the words they already know and discuss their meanings with the class. This activity serves to activate prior knowledge, introduce essential vocabulary, and prepare the students for the upcoming presentation.

The teacher presents A Path to Democracy presentation introducing the activity, and asks guiding questions such as "What happens if a leader is not fair?", "Do you think voting is the best way to choose a leader?", "If you are a candidate, what will you promise to people?" to promote discussion and comprehension. Prompt feedback is provided continuously to support understanding and engagement by the teacher.

Post-Activity

For consolidation, the teacher implements the Democracy Match activity focusing on democracy-related vocabulary, which will help the students consolidate their understanding of the new terms (Annex-1). The activity is displayed on the interactive whiteboard, and the class is divided into two groups. The students take turns answering the questions, and each correct response earns points for their team. The activity is carried out in the form of a quiz competition, which both reinforces key terms and fosters collaboration, motivation, and engagement. This activity serves as a formative assessment tool, allowing the teacher to evaluate the students' understanding of democracy-related vocabulary and identify words or concepts that may need further clarification in the following lesson.

Before the Lesson

The teacher prepares an animation titled The Election Adventure using one of the animation creation tools, focusing on a school election and the democratic process (Annex-2). The teacher also designs an online quiz, The Election Adventure Quiz, using one of the web tools for multiple-choice questions related to the animation, in order to check comprehension and reinforce learning (Annex-3).

Lesson 2 (Class)

Pre-Activity

The teacher initiates a "Think-Pair-Share" activity to activate prior knowledge about democracy and elections. Each student thinks individually about the question: "What makes a fair election?" and writes 2–3 ideas on a small paper. The students are paired and share their ideas with their partner, discussing similarities and differences. The teacher encourages active participation and provides prompts to help the students elaborate on their answers.

While Activity

Following the "Think-Pair-Share" activity, the teacher presents the The Election Adventure animation about a school election and democratic process (Annex-2). Since some words in the story may be challenging for 6th graders, the teacher pauses the video at key moments to briefly explain or paraphrase the important terms, using simple language, gestures, and examples on the board. This way, the students can connect the new words with their meanings. To ensure better comprehension, the teacher plays the video twice: first, for general understanding, and second, for focusing on specific elements such as candidates, voting procedures, campaign promises, and fairness in elections. Immediately after the second viewing, the teacher asks questions such as: "Compare the democratic decision-making process in the animation with the class president elections in your school. What are the similarities and differences? How might this event have developed differently in a society that is not governed democratically?" Then the teacher initiates The Election Adventure Quiz related to the animation (Annex-3). The students answer interactive questions individually or in pairs, focusing on comprehension and understanding of democracy-related concepts.

Post-Activity

As a post-activity, the teacher uses Vocabulary Exercise 2: Democracy from EBA, in which the students are asked to match the given sentence beginnings with the correct word groups to complete the sentences meaningfully. This activity helps the students reinforce their understanding of democracy-related vocabulary and sentence structures, while engaging in an interactive matching task. The teacher integrates this vocabulary exercise with the animation by focusing on key terms such as candidate, ballot box, rights, and fairness. The students complete the matching task and then explain one of the completed sentences aloud. This activity both reinforces the link between the animation and vocabulary practice and serves as an assessment activity enabling the teacher to evaluate the students' understanding of democracy-related terms in context.

Before the Lesson

The teacher prepares for the lesson by selecting suitable digital tools for creating campaign posters and presentations. The teacher designs a detailed Election Campaign Guideline using one of the poster and flyer creation tools. The classroom is arranged to support effective group work and collaboration.

Lesson 3 (IT Class)

Pre-Activity

In this lesson, the students work in groups to prepare an election campaign by using digital tools. The teacher explains the task: each group nominates a candidate, prepares campaign promises, a digital poster, and a presentation about a school election and democratic issue. Roles are assigned within each group: Candidate, Speech Writer, Digital Designer, Campaign Manager, Supporters. The teacher demonstrates the digital tools that can be used and provides the Election Campaign Guideline to support the students in organising their work.

While Activity

The teacher demonstrates how to use digital tools to design campaign posters and presentations. The students collaborate to create their candidate's campaign promises, prepare a short campaign speech, and design a digital poster. During the activity, the teacher circulates around the classroom, offering guidance, answering questions, and ensuring that all group members actively participate in their assigned roles.

Post-Activity

Each group presents their campaign to the class. The teacher provides feedback on creativity, collaboration, and presentation skills. The students reflect on the activity, discussing what they learnt about democracy and group work.

Homework/Assignment

The students are tasked with writing a short paragraph (6–8 sentences) about "Why democracy is important in our school and society." They should include at least five new vocabulary words from the lesson (e.g. candidate, ballot box, rights, fairness, president). The students will upload their work to EBA or bring it to the next lesson for sharing.
